Non-Attainment of Sufficiency in Power Generation

*79. SHRIMATI BIJOYA CHAKRAVARTY: Will the Minister of POWER AND NON-CONVENTIONAL ENERGY SOURCES be pleased to state:

(a) what factors are responsible for the non-attainment of sufficiency in power generation in the country; and

(b) whether Government propose to give a directive to the State Governments to undertake the task of co-generation in industries on a continuing basis in view of the prevailing power shortage?

THE MINISTER OF STATE OF THE MINISTRY OF POWER AND NON-CONVENTIONAL ENERGY SOURCES (SHRI KALP NATH RAI): (a) and (b) One of the main reasons for insufficient generating capacity in the country is demand outstripping the supply. Although concerted efforts are being made to meet the rising demand of energy, shortages continue to persist.

The reasons on account of which the country is not in a position to install additional generation capacity adequate to meet the rising demand of power are inadequate availability of funds, delay in supply of equipment, delay in according Environment and Forests clearances, law and order problems etc. In addition, transmission and distribution losses and less than optimal performance of existing power stations prevents demand being met to the maximum extent possible from existing installed capacity.

Government is of the view that cogeneration wherever techno-economically feasible should be encouraged even though considering the overall magnitude of shortages, its contribution would at best be marginal. The Central Government is however, not empowered to issue any directives in this regard.
